

THE TRADE REVIEW BY DUN & COMPANY

WEEKLY REPORTS SHOW IMPROVEMENT SLOW.

Confidence Slowly Returning, But An Enormous Business Is Held Back Until the Future Is More Clear—The Weeks Failures—Maine Result's Effect Not Felt.

New York, Sept. 19.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: There is still no distinct improvement in business, although conditions favor it. Confidence slowly rises, speculative buying of materials for future use continues, imports of gold do not cease, and the Bank of England has not tried to check them by further advance in rates, as the weight of the demand now falls upon France. But an enormous business is held back until the future is more clear.

In cotton, hides, wool, and pig iron buying openly speculative in character marks the current business. Resumption of work by a good part of the Fall river cotton mills and advances in some kinds of cotton goods helped to raise the price of middling uplands to 8½ cents again, although realizing sent it down to 8½. The favorite speculative estimate, which was about 400,000 bales in error a year ago, alarmed many by naming 7,800,000 bales as the minimum and 9,000,000 as the maximum, a range wide enough in itself to suggest doubt, and either quantity with stocks carried over is more than the world has ever consumed.

Wheat has risen 1½ cents, although western receipts of 6,626,830 bushels exceed last year's, and in three weeks have been 17,855,868 bushels, against 16,791,660 last year. Helped by purchases at present low prices, Atlantic exports were 1,821,819 bushels, four included, and for three weeks 5,796,184, against 3,837,129 last year. Corn has scarcely advanced, as western receipts are still as large as a year ago, with exports smaller.

The one industry showing increase of working force is the cotton manufacturer, restriction of output having secured more healthy demand for some goods. Most of the mills have started or are about to start, though the uncertainty of the cotton market embarrasses.

The maturity of large wool notes is said to be the cause of selling, and prices do not rise, though quotations are more nearly maintained. There has been a fair week in dress goods and better demand for cloakings, but the heavy failure of a Philadelphia firm tends to restrict operations.

The iron and steel manufacture is still waiting for business, with nearly half its producing capacity idle, but hopefulness and the speculative buying of pig iron sustain prices. Sales said to amount to 25,000 tons have been made of Alabama iron for shipment to England, but the home demand does not enlarge at all, and the various associations still hold combination prices, though the demand is remarkably slender. The coke output is less than 50,000 tons weekly.

Failures for the last week have been 317 in the United States, against 213 last year, and 32 in Canada, against 32 last year.

PENSION OLD EMPLOYEES.

Plan Arranged by Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Road Men.
Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 19.—The employees of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul system, from high salaried officers to switchmen, are arranging the final details of a plan for the retirement of old men and their pensioning on half pay.

It is proposed that each man shall put into a pool 1 per cent of his monthly wages, and that after two years all men who have been in the company's service for thirty or more years may, if they desire, retire on half pay, the pension to be taken from the fund thus created. The amount paid in wages by the road is about $12,000,000 yearly and the fund at the end of its second year will amount to about $250,000, which has been figured out as ample to inaugurate the scheme. It is possible the company may add to this fund, and in that case there will be added sick benefit and disability funds, as the increased receipts may warrant.

Michigan Methodists.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 19.—The Michigan Methodist conference on Friday accorded a warm welcome to Joshua Levering, candidate of the old-line prohibitionists for president of the United States. Mr. Levering delivered the address at the temperance anniversary. Nearly the entire session was devoted to passing the characters of effective elders and hearing their reports. Most of them reported a falling off in collections, but a great growth in church membership.

Mr. Thacher will write a letter accepting the nomination of the Buffalo convention and will make it public before the gold democrats hold their convention in Brooklyn next Thursday.

Protest Against Indiana Tax Levy.

Rochester, Ind., Sept. 19.—Taxpayers of this county are loudly condemning the commissioners for making what they think an extravagant tax levy. In two years the increase in taxes amounts to about 40 per cent. The burden has become so heavy that many of the farmers have been compelled to borrow money to save their property. A new courthouse has just been completed, and other improvements made an increase of 35 cents per $100 necessary.

Tollgate Raiders' Work.

Springfield, Ky., Sept. 19.—The tollgate raiders, after a rest of a week, broke out again Thursday night and tore down three gates near Mackville, on the Springfield, Perryville and Williamsburg pikes. The officers of Washington county are silent and inactive, refusing to take any steps to interfere with the mobs. It is probable that the remaining gates in the county will share the fate of the thirty-three destroyed this month.

WHILE THE PEOPLE ARE SEEKING M'KINLEY BRYAN IS OUT SEEKING THE PEOPLE

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS AT THE OHIO CITY.

Seventy-five Train Loads of Enthusiastic Republicans Besiege McKinley For Speeches—Addresses By Senator Cullom and Others—Tent Too Small—Good Money News.

Canton, O., Sept. 19.—The formal opening of the campaign in Canton took place Friday. The little city since early morning was literally jammed with visitors from distant cities and near-by towns. The parade in the afternoon was an hour and three minutes in passing a given point.

Railroad men claimed at noon they had hauled 50,000 people into Canton. Seventy-five train-loads came. Chairman Charles S. Kurtz estimated the crowds present on the streets, in the afternoon parade, at the big tent meeting and about the McKinley home at 100,000. Special excursions from Cleveland and a dozen other points added to the crowd after the afternoon program had finished. Sixty thousand may be considered a conservative estimate of the people who came by rail outside of Stark county. Of the 95,000 people in the county, probably half were at the Canton meeting.

Bright and early there came from Little Sandy township a club of 200 uniformed men and nearly the whole population of the township. At the square they met similar parties from other directions in the county. Then came 400 farmers from Carroll county. By this time the special trains began to arrive, and the delegations from outside the county poured in almost faster than they could be counted.

The notable uniformed delegations present were the Young Men's Tariff club and the Americus club of Pittsburgh, the Elkins cadets of Wheeling, the Tippecanoe club of Cleveland, and the Wheelmen's clubs from Toledo and Detroit, who left their train at a suburban station and rode in parade order.

The parade moved in four divisions of footmen, and with a large contingent of wheelmen and horsemen. Pennsylvania, West Virginia and other states formed the first division; Ohio, outside of Stark county, the second; Stark county, outside of Canton, the third, and Canton the fourth. Each of the notable delegations was assigned a position of honor. Maj. McKinley, the visiting speakers, the officers of the day and guests of honor rode in open carriages at the head of the parade.

Before the parade dozens of delegations, headed by their bands, marched to Maj. McKinley's residence. Among those to whom he spoke were the Columbiana county people, the Pittsburgh delegation, headed by the Americus and Tariff clubs, and the Columbus Buckeye club, acting as escort to Gov. Bushnell and Supreme Judge Shauck. Maj. McKinley thanked the members of the different delegations most cordially for their visit.

Gov. Hastings presented the compliments of the Americus club and Maj. McKinley responded. He also addressed the building trades delegation from Columbus and the Fairfield township party.

Some of the organizations left on the early evening trains, but many others arrived after the first parade, and in size and general appearance the parade at night which prefaced the second tent meeting was a reproduction of the one in the afternoon. There were a score or more of bands in line and the number of uniformed organizations has never been equaled in the state.

The enormous tent, large as it is, fell far short of the demands upon it during the speaking. Many more than were admitted turned back disappointed. Besides these a crowd never less than 6,000, and often double that size, surged around the McKinley home from early in the forenoon till late at night.

Gov. Hastings made the principal address of the night. The first meeting of the day was held soon after noon in the big tent. Gov. Bushnell called the multitude to order and made a short address. Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois delivered the principal address of the meeting.

Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska preluded a long discussion of the money question with a magnificent eulogy of Maj. McKinley. Congressman McCleary of Minnesota made an address also.

Enthusiastic Demonstration In the Southern City In Honor of the Democratic Nominee—Speeches Made at Railway Stations—Soldiers Escort Him From Train—Bad Money News.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 19.—William J. Bryan's reception at the Auditorium in Richmond Friday night was one of the most, if not the most, enthusiastic reception of his campaign. The Auditorium was packed to the doors and from floor to gallery when the democratic nominee arrived there at 8:45. Some other meetings have been greater in point of attendance, but Richmond must be given the banner for the amount of enthusiasm expressed. Ten minutes elapsed before the cheering that followed Mr. Bryan's entrance ceased, and there was another outburst when he was presented by Senator Daniel. There was much disorder during Mr. Bryan's delivery, but he managed to make himself heard by nearly everybody.

On the conclusion of the Auditorium speech he addressed a great throng from the balcony of the Jefferson hotel, where he is stopping. His speech here was short and on the general lines pursued by him in his other speeches.

Virginia was invaded by the Bryan party at Emporia, and there the nominee told the people he was to meet the citizens of the state in which his father was born. At Petersburg the public square was filled with an expectant and enthusiastic audience. Mr. Bryan spoke about five minutes.

A committee from Richmond got on the train at Petersburg and acted as an escort to the nominee. At Manchester a short stop was made and the people had congregated at the depot. Mr. Bryan spoke a few moments, requesting the people to study the money question, and then the train pulled across the river to Richmond, where a great crowd had gathered at the depot, and gave Mr. Bryan an enthusiastic reception. He was driven to the residence of the state chairman, Ellyson, where he dined and was afterward taken to the Auditorium.

Goldboro, N. C., Sept. 19.—William J. Bryan arrived here at 11:0 Thursday night, where the private car he is traveling in was side-tracked until 9 o'clock Friday morning, at which hour he delivered an address from a platform to a large crowd which had been waiting since early morning.

Mr. Bryan was escorted by the Goldboro rifles, and at the conclusion of the speaking left for Rocky Mount.

As they stood there in sight of their children Fowler shot his wife, killing her instantly, and then fired a bullet into his own brain, through the temple. The explosion was caused by a heavy charge of dynamite placed in the building for the purpose of ridding the town of the saloon which has been conducted by Mrs. Weisbrodt since the death of her husband two years ago. There is no clew to the perpetrators. The shock was distinctly felt several miles from town.

It is quite evident that the silver agitation is rapidly waning. The silver lodge at Magnolia at their last meeting had but four or five interested members. A prominent member of that lodge residing in West Magnolia got into a discussion recently wherein he stated that "he would vote for Atgeld or any other anarchist before he would vote for William McKinley."

They can be bought at a great reduction in fact they are you have been able to purchase them in some time. We have received a lot of new rugs and from the little side door size to the great large floor coverings go at the same reduction. The values are so real that one day should end the entire lot. You know we cut prices on carpets, prices on matting and enable you to secure a great many real bargains, and now we jump into ring prices with both feet. The new floor was waxed to perfection and was a great improvement. Smith's orchestra of four pieces furnished the music and sixteen numbers were on the program. The "Home, Sweet Home" waltz was played at 1 o'clock. Among those present were:

The traveling men who have been touring the country in the interest of the Hanson Furniture Company have all been notified to "lay low" until after the presidential election, and no more orders will be taken by these gentlemen. The Hanson Company have plenty of stock on hand and are now filling mail orders daily.

THIS LADY HAD A BIG WHEEL

However, It Was a Wheel of Fortune and Fair Directors Barred It.

Among the numerous "fakirs" who applied for admittance upon the fair grounds was a good looking young lady who said she resided in Belvidere. Her scheme was a game where-be investors were to secure a pearl handled knife by wheel of fortune device. As no gambling was allowed upon the grounds this year, the directors refused to sell her a license.

MAHONEY SMARTER THAN METSKER

Beloit Free Press speaks of the Democratic Congressional Fight.

The Beloit Free Press, in its account of the democratic convention at that city yesterday, says: "J. L. Mahoney, of Janesville, will receive Rock county's entire vote. Now it is nothing to the Free Press who gets nominated, but it is fair to say right here that Mahoney is the best choice. He is lots smarter than Beloit's candidate. He could flank him at every turn in the wordy conflict, and as words is all there is in the silver campaign, it shows that Messrs. Winans, Smith et al. were onto their job. Mr. Mahoney is also a smarter man than ex-Congressman Babbitt. The latter said it was possible to elect the congressman in this district this fall.

"Mr. Mahoney said there was no possibility of victory, but he wanted unity. He said Mr. Winans a handsome compliment. He said he was the peer in politics of any man in Rock county and what he thought ought to carry weight.

"Mr. Metsker said that it was not unlikely that Mr. Winans had a personal feeling in this matter, and if he, Metsker, had as many votes in the convention as Mr. Mahoney had he would perhaps feel as Mr. Mahoney did.

"Mr. Buckley put in a word against the unit rule, but was glad to see such a cry for unity on the part of Rock county democrats.

"Clinton Babbitt urged the defeat of Mr. Winans motion. It would disfranchise Beloit's delegates. While on his feet he took occasion to try and attract the attention of the convention from the subject at issue by injecting a stump speech for the 'Greatest Man Ever Nominated, Bryan.'

"Wm. Smith wanted the delegation to go as a unit and consoled Mr. Metsker by stating that maybe he would have the solid vote—it was not instructed."

WOMEN WANT TO KNOW.

TO WHOM CAN THEY TELL THEIR TROUBLES?

A Woman Answers "To Me"—Anxious Inquirers Intelligently Answered—Thousands of Grateful Letters.

Women regard it as a blessing that they can talk to a woman who fully understands their every ailment, and thus avoid the examinations, experiments and theories of incompetent physicians, whose sex deprives them of knowing by experience.

The endless confidence placed in Mrs. Pinkham by American women, prompts them to seek her advice constantly. Female diseases yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. Inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, ovarian troubles, spinal weakness and kidney complaints, all have their symptoms, and should be "nipped in the bud." Bearing-down pains, backache, headache, nervousness, pains in groins, lassitude, whites, irregularities, dread of impending evil, blues, sleeplessness, faintness, etc.

Here is testimony right to the point. "The doctors told me that unless I went to the hospital and had an operation performed, I could not live. I had falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb.

"I was in constant misery all the time; my back ached; I was always tired. It was impossible for me to walk far or stand long at a time. I was surely a wreck. I decided that I would give your Compound and Sanative Wash a trial.

"I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used two packages of Sanative Wash, and I am now almost well. I am stouter and healthier than I have ever been in my life. My friends and neighbors and the doctors are surprised at my rapid improvement. I have told them all what I have been taking."

TEACHERS ARE CHANGED ABOUT

Special Meeting of the Board of Education Held Last Evening.

Several changes in the teaching force in the Janesville schools were made at a special meeting of the Board of Education last night. The resignation of Miss Grace Draper, of the third grade, Washington school; Miss Annie Duggan, of the third and fourth grades of the Grant school, and Miss Luella Hill were received and accepted.

The committee on teachers recommended that Miss Agnes Joyce be transferred from the fourth grade, Washington school, to the third and fourth grade, and principalship of the Grant school; that Miss Nora Bull be appointed to the fourth grade, Washington school; that Miss Abbie Atwood be appointed to the third grade, Washington school; that Miss Lenora Casford be appointed to the fifth and sixth grades of the Grant school. That Miss Ida McLouth be appointed special supervisor in drawing and teacher in the domestic art department in the high school, at a salary of $60 per month. That L. D. Brode be appointed as instructor in manual training and teacher in the high school, at $60 per month. All the appointments are subject to the rules of the board.

Bills aggregating $521.15 were ordered paid, and Clerk pro tem Clemens was instructed to advertise for bids for coal for the schools.

SILVER CRAZE IS DECREASING

Col. W. F. Cody So Writes From the Great Northwest

A dispatch from New York says: Col. William F. Cody writes from Superior, Wis., where he is with his "Wild West" show, to E. V. Foote, one of the proprietors of the Hoffman House, that he will either support Palmer and Buckner or else vote for McKinley. Col. Cody has always been a democrat, and although he lives in Nebraska and personally likes Mr. Bryan very much, he cannot support the Chicago platform.

"McKinley will sweep the northwestern states," wrote Col. Cody, "and I say this as a person in a position to know what I am talking about. I have been traveling through the northwest with my show and am daily coming in contact with hundreds of people of all classes. I am meeting with many democrats who will vote against Bryan, while I encounter comparatively few republicans who will not vote for McKinley. It is easy to see that the silver craze is decreasing."

Thus Col. Cody confirms the interview that was given by the press agent while in Janesville.

Excursion Rates to Madison.

On account of the great republican rally at Madison, Wis., on September 23, in which General Daniel E. Sickles, General Franz Sigel, Corporal Tanner and other noted men will participate, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will run a special train to Madison, leaving Janesville at seven (7:00) o'clock a. m., on Wednesday, September 23. Leave Madison returning at 4:00 p. m., arriving in Janesville at 5:30 p. m. Fare for the round trip, $1.60. Tickets are good for return and including September 24. The meeting convenes at 9:30 a. m. and continues up to noon.

We have our six hole champion Garland range in perfect order for either wood or coal. Lowell Hardware Co.

Filled Cheese in Florida.

The "filled cheese" bill passed by the last congress goes into effect on Sept. 4 and on and after that date a special government tax of $250 per annum will have to be paid by all wholesale dealers and $12 per annum by all retail dealers in filled cheese. "Filled cheese" is the designation of all adulterated products or anything made from other substances than the curd of pure milk. In addition to the special tax at the rates given all dealers who have any filled cheese in stock on Sept. 3 are required to purchase special tax-stamps, at the cost of 1 cent for each pound, and attach these stamps on the packages containing filled cheese. This will only have to be done with the stock on hand, for any filled cheese received after September 4 will have to be duly stamped by the manufacturer, who is required to pay a special tax of $400 a year for manufacturing the article. The tax is about the same thing as the special tax paid by dealers in oleomargarine.—Exchange.

Alleged American Church Custom.

There is nothing like going abroad for the news. A writer in the London Church Review says that it is "a regular custom" in San Francisco churches and in other hot parts of America, for people to "get up and stretch themselves, and even take a turn outside, after the fashion of the theater between the acts." The writer thinks that "if we (English) would adopt some of these sensible ways our churches might be generally filled even in spite of the hot weather."

A Clever Teacher.

That was a clever kindergarten teacher who wishing her class of boys and girls to take up sewing and fearing revolt on the part of the young lads, cleverly managed that their sewing should take the form of sailmaking for small boats, learning to stitch balls and to mend sweaters. The result was keen interest and complete success.—New York Times.

TWO GOOD NOMINATIONS.

The republicans of the Twenty-second Senatorial district made a wise selection in placing in nomination John M. Whitehead at their convention yesterday. Mr. Whitehead belongs to the class of republicans who are entirely free from political trickery or dishonesty. His campaign, conducted entirely by himself, was free from any taint of corruption or shadow of dishonesty, and yet it was thoroughly effective, as evidenced by the fact that forty-four representative Rock county republicans stayed by him so loyally. His address of acceptance, full of kindly sentiment and broad charity, was characteristic of the man, and his public life will be as pure and untarnished, as has ever been his private life.

He possesses the ability and conservative judgment to become a recognized leader in the state senate, and the people of Rock county are fortunate in being able to secure his services. The nomination of William G. Wheeler for the assembly, insures the success of the ticket in the district, and will place in the assembly, a representative who is an honor to the party. Mr. Wheeler is recognized as a young man of marked ability. This, and the fact that he represents the young men of the party, gave him the nomination.

Mr. Valentine has a host of friends in the party, and no enemies, but the republican electors deemed it wise, at this time, to nominate Mr. Wheeler. With John M. Whitehead in the senate, and W. G. Wheeler in the assembly, Rock county will be ably represented.

A WEEK OF GAINS.

Business interests throughout the country show symptoms of a recovery of confidence. What Bryan's election would mean to every man in business is shown by the universal breath of relief at each piece of republican good news. For six weeks the country has had to reckon, not with popocratic financial fantasy alone, but with the grim certainty of panic which Bryan admits would follow his election. The wane of the Bryan star, the seeming certainty that sound money principles would triumph, heralds a new era of confidence and prosperity. The money market, the pulse of business, has shown a gratifying change during the week. In the east the larger banks are showing more dispositions to lend; and the distress caused in commercial circles through the difficulty in procuring discounts is steadily abating. One gratifying feature in the discount market is the comparative absence of any distrust among the banks about the commercial situation. The fact that merchants have so well withstood the strain upon credit for so long a period is regarded as evidence of the general soundness of the mercantile situation; and where any curtailment of discounts is apparent, it is more due to the banks not having yet been able to restore their reduced reserves, than to any misgivings about the safety of borrowers. As the gold imports increase, this cause of restriction of credit must, however, disappear.

These are all solid improvements in the situation. They imply a real change in the public estimate of the chances of an extinction of the silver danger. They show that judgment and calm discretion have gained the ascendancy over an indiscriminating public fright. They are evidences that a point has been reached at which people understand that while free coinage, if it were enacted, would be a catastrophe beyond all estimate, yet the thing is an impossibility to the practical common sense, the honor and the native conservatism of a majority of the American people.

HOW IT HITS THE PEOPLE.

What the people want to hear is how they would be affected by a change in the country's currency from the gold standard to the silver basis. The gold standard has prevailed in this country since 1834, except from the beginning of 1862 to the beginning of 1879, when gold was merchandise and inconvertible paper constituted the entire circulating medium. Except during these seventeen years all values in the United States have been estimated on the gold basis. The standard silver dollar never appeared in general circulation until it began to be coined under the Bland-Allison law in 1878, and though more than 400,000,000 of these pieces have come from the mint since then, all of them of full legal tender, they have practically been subsidiary coins. The fiat in them, which was set in 1878, now amounts to 47c but the fact that the government receives them for dues, and pledges to keep them at a parity with gold, makes them count for 100c in all transactions. Unrestricted coinage of silver by the United States independently would knock this gold prop from under the silver coins, cut them to their mercantile value, now 53c on the dollar, and reduce, correspondingly, in purchasing power the wages of the laborer and laborer's accounts in the savings banks, its life insurance policies, its building association shares, and all the fruits of its industry, intelligence and economy. The presentation of these truths to the people in the simplest and clearest language which can be used is the task which each newspaper writer and stump speaker should set for himself.

The Illinois man who assumed that Gov. Morton of New York was favorable to Bryan had his peepers opened by a letter from the governor saying: "I am conscientiously, and for the soundest public reasons, in favor of the election of Major McKinley for president, and the re-establishment and perpetuation of the republican party in power."

Depreciating the currency has been a favorite method of bankrupt kings to replenish their treasury at the expense of their subjects, but no free people have ever decided by ballot to have their currency depreciated, and we cannot believe that a majority of the people of the United States will ever do so.

The more thinking a man does the more certain it is that he will vote for McKinley, who stands upon a platform of sound business and common sense principles which appeals to no prejudice and requires neither intoxication nor excitement to make friends and supporters.

Mr. Sewall insists on making the word "gold" appear in all contracts he makes to carry freight in his vessels. He is willing to be a candidate on the 50-cent dollar ticket, but when it comes down to carrying freight, he demands 100-cent dollars right along.

Now do the republican Knights of Labor like having their national order used as a Bryan campaign document by the popocratic national committee.

Mr. Bryan will never be president, but he will probably live long enough to be heartily ashamed of some of the sentiments he has uttered in this campaign.

Stampeding a convention and stampeding a majority of the voters in this country are two different things, as some people are already finding out.

The administration doesn't deserve any special thanks for its broadsides fired at Bryan after he had been whipped by the republicans.

The race war rumor made its appearance in Georgia ahead of schedule time. It usually starts about two days before an election.

Spain has at last granted this government's demand for a civil trial for the Americans arrested on the ill-buster Competitor.

Perhaps it was sympathy for Coxey that caused Bryan to decline making a speech from the steps of the capitol at Washington.

That Georgia "cracker," labeled Tom Watson, is spitting in a manner that indicates an early explosion.

Since Tom Watson said that he would not talk politics on Sunday the democratic managers have been wishing that all the weeks between now and election consisted entirely of Sundays.

Senator Hill seems to be one of the worst thumped democrats up to date. Later he can turn that honor over to Bryan.

Senator Palmer is also a drawing attraction, but nobody has even suggested that he will be elected president.

Mr. Bryan will go down to history as the candidate who was "mashed" on his own voice.

If the South is so solid for silver why is Bryan stumping in that section?

DEATH ENDS EARTHLY WOES

Funeral services of an impressive nature were conducted by the Rev. R. J. Roche and the many beautiful floral gifts told of the esteem in which Miss Schmidley was held. At the conclusion of the services the remains were tenderly carried by six young ladies after which the casket was borne to the hearse by six brothers of the dead girl. The interment was in Mount Olivet cemetery and the lady pall bearers were: Misses Margaret Roche, Edith Dilzer, Nellie Cox, Anna Cox, Mary Klime, Etta Whalen and Susie Myers.

MR. HYZER JOINS REPUBLICAN HOST

ESPOUSES THE CAUSE OF THE

Will Do What He Can to Insure the Election of Hon. William McKinley—Gold Democratic Committee's Offer is Declined—Political Pointers for the Recorder.

The free silver Recorder seems to be considerably worried about E. M. Hyzer's political status in the present campaign, and would evidently like to claim him as a disciple of some shade of popper or democratic faith.

The Gazette is pleased to announce, as a matter of fact, that Mr. Hyzer has not only declared his intention to vote for McKinley, but that he also states that he has had enough of the democratic party in any form.

Hereafter he is a republican. Mr. Hyzer was invited to take the management of the national democratic party campaign in Rock county. Mr.

WM. F. VILAS.

[Formerly The Recorder's candidate for President, who will preside at a Republican Rally at Madison next week.]

Under, chairman of the state central committee, sent him transportation, and urged him to take the platform for the party in the state, and the announcement was made in the Chicago papers. The invitation was declined, and the transportation returned with Mr. Hyzer's statement that he was "a McKinley man," and that he should do what he could to ensure McKinley's election.

The Gazette is glad to welcome Mr. Hyzer back to the ranks of the republican party. Thousands of good men all over the country, who left the party on the independent movement a few years ago, are coming back to the standard of republicanism, and for all time to come they will be loyal to the principles of the party that they temporarily deserted. These men, with a liberal sprinkling of life-long democrats, who have waited for a reasonable excuse to forsake democracy, will be found in the republican column this fall, not as visitors, but as active and permanent workers.

The republican party can well afford to extend to this class of recruits the right hand of fellowship, as it is doing in all parts of the country.

News for the Recorder.

If the Recorder wants an item of political news for its readers the paper might state that Senator Vilas will occupy the novel position, next week, of presiding at a republican rally in the city of Madison. It might say that no man in the state is more vehement in his denunciation of the popper party, or more actively engaged in working for its defeat, than the same Senator Vilas, who, it is well remembered, was the Recorder's candidate for the presidency before the nomination was made. The Recorder devoted a column editorial in support of this position before Bryan was nominated. Senator Vilas was then the Recorder's candidate for the highest office within the gift of the American people. Now his wise teachings are completely ignored.

The Recorder might also state that the Secretary of War, the Hon. Daniel Lamont, is on record as saying a few days ago, that the free silver party must be wiped out of existence, and that in his opinion the state of New York would roll up a majority of 250,000 for McKinley.

If the Recorder wants another item of political news, it might say that Mr. Shepard, the wealthy railroad contractor of St. Paul, and a life long democrat, went into the republican headquarters a few days ago and left his check for $5,000 with the statement that he would duplicate every dollar contributed by the republicans of St. Paul, until the close of the campaign, for the success of the republican ticket.

These men reason that the only hope of democracy is in the defeat of Bryan. The Recorder will be for sound money and national democracy again after Nov. 4.

Mr. Hyzer's Statement.

The Gazette has received the following statement from Mr. Hyzer: EDITOR GAZETTE:—With reference to the statement that I had been appointed on the county committee by the gold democratic organization, I desire to say that I have received no such appointment. If you have any curiosity as to my vote, I have no hesitation in saying that I intend to vote for McKinley and Hobart. Respectfully,

E. M. HYZER.

FAIR IS AT AN END, AND WAS A SUCCESS

THE SHOW HAS BEEN THE BEST IN YEARS.

Prospects For Next Year Are Improved By the Fact That Only the Unfavorable Weather Kept It From Being the Best Show Held in the State—Officers Deserve Praise.

The fair is ended. The big show was the best provided in many years, and that the weather should have interfered so sadly with its success, is generally regretted.

Janesville people—and in fact the people of the whole county—took hold, this year, to make the fair a success. Secretary Watt, President Scott, Vice President Smith, and the other officers worked hard, and with the co-operation of the people, they made a grand success of the fair. The result of the plans so carefully made, was the filling of stock stalls to overflowing, and crowding the buildings full of exhibits of all kinds. The attendance has been very fair, however, considering the weather, and the prospects for next year have been made doubly bright by the excellent showing made this fall. Had the weather been favorable, large crowds would have been the rule, as every person who visited the fair, left singing its praises.

THE GERMANS TAKE NO CHANCES

Ex-Mayor Thoroughgood Tells of His Visit to LaCrosse and Galena.

Ex-Mayor John Thoroughgood is home from a business trip to LaCrosse while in that city he met several gentlemen with whom he had business relations for the past eighteen years and as there is little else to talk about just now the conversation turned to politics.

"I found many who had always been unwavering democrats, and have not changed now, but they will vote for McKinley all the same," said Mr. Thoroughgood. "My business transactions are mostly amongst German people—and I found that same sentiment in Galena, Ill., where I met several others—on the money platform their politics does not seem to cut any figure. To the democratic nominee on the gold question they are friendly, but they say, we shall vote for McKinley this time. We cannot take any chances."

Ex-Mayor Thoroughgood will leave Janesville on Monday, and will visit several of the largest cities in Pennsylvania. He intends to feel the public pulse by talking with the people he meets in a business way, and thus get the sentiment of the people. As the ex-mayor is a close observer, and a man of affairs, his deductions are valuable.

A DREAM.

I hail a dream of boyhood's joyful days,
When tramping o'er the meadows wild and free,
With not a care or sorrow on our brow
To change a heart beat in the least degree.
We scaled the hills as in younger days
And drank from hidden springs a quenching glass
That sparkled bright with sunlight's cheerful rays
When o'er this pathway we were wont to pass.
We listened to the bleating of the lambs
While skipping round their mothers in their glee,
And watched the gopher while he sought his hole
As boscie chewed her cud beneath the tree.
The rustling leaves played sweetest, dreamy tunes,
As did they in the lovely June gone by.
The crickets chirped in marshy meadows wide,
While nighttime gleamed with phosphorescent fly.
We dreamed the clouds were feathery beds of ease,
On which to lay our weary bodies down,
As in the fancy of our childhood days,
We'd ride the swiftest cloud and wear a crown.
The water in the brook, so calm and clear,
As o'er the pebbles lulling whispers spoke,
That told the secrets of its mountain path
While on its quiet journey to the lake.
Now lay we down on green and mossy bank
And watched the sportive minnows at their play.
While nibbling crumbs we scattered for a feast—
A sure return to come some other day.
While dreaming thus the spell was sure to break,
Too soon was marred this rapturous, youthful bliss
By ringing bells that tolled the hour of seven,
And with their tones we gave good night a kiss.

WITHOUT A HEART.

There is really very little in this story. Indeed, it would never have been written but for the woman's dearest friend, who, dying alone and uncared for, with a heart full of bitterness toward the whole world, begged that a pile of yellow letters be opened and read after her death. "She would have had me burn them," she said in a trembling voice, "but that I will not grant her. All else I granted her. Nevertheless there was only one other woman whom she wronged more deeply. Let us both be avenged in the reading of these."

She whom her friend at so late an hour so severely condemned was the wonder of her day and generation. Women have sometimes been heard to say that they have no hearts, but they do not mean it. This woman did. "Friendship, humanity, religion," she said over and over again, as girls have said before, "these I care for, these I understand, for these I will make sacrifices, but not your idle talk of love, which wrecks men's lives and fills women's hearts with unrest. I for one render thanksgiving that I have no heart." Then those who were older said to her, as elders have said before: "Wait awhile. You are young yet. We shall see your heart yield some day."

"No," she answered, "you shall not see it yield, because it will not; and the reason it will not yield is because I have no heart. Nature, more merciful to me than to my sisters, put a little hard piece of ice in its place which keeps me cold to the most passionate pleading which was ever uttered in the name of love."

People predicted that she would become a sour old maid and regret her lot. She did not. She grew more beautiful and brilliant and scornful every day. Lovers came, and she mocked them one and all; she mocked them to the end, and to the end they came. She kept their likenesses, though not for love, for often to her confidential friends she would allude to them with the intensest bitterness as the men she hated most in the world. And when they inquired with surprise, knowing that the rejected suitors had most cause to hate her, "But wherein have they offended?" she would only laugh in reply, and her laugh had a hard, cold ring in it like the tinkle of some ice-bound waterfall. She did incalculable harm. There was a sweet, shy girl to whom she was an oracle, who took timid counsel with her when a man came and told her that he worshiped her and wished to have her for his wife. This girl the woman without a heart earnestly advised not to marry.

"But I love him, too," said the girl. "Would you persuade me that my affection at least will not last? There is something in loving, even if there is no answer to the cry of one's heart."

At this the tinkling laugh of the woman without a heart sounded clearer than ever. "Then, dear child," she said more gravely, "let me tell you positively, it will not last. It will not last, because it is only a dream—the madness of a day or an hour born of youth and beauty and fleeting with them. Look around you and see women by the thousands, dragged down into the mire, crowned with a crown of thorns, crucified on their own affections, because they had hearts and believed in love. Then look at me—free, tranquil and happy—and choose."

So convincingly did she speak that the young girl, to whom her words were a very gospel of authority, believed her and would not listen to her lover. Thereupon he grieved inconsolately for a space of time, then married some one else, both of whom were very bitter to the woman who had loved him. This woman afterward became the dearest friend of her with whom this story deals and lived with her until death smote one of them.

But the woman without a heart lived to see them grow old and sad and stricken with care and other burdens who had prophesied sorrow for her, and she pitied them unfeignedly for the hearts they carried in their bosoms, and when they said, "What, has no man ever found yours for you yet?" she laughed exultantly and said: "No, and he never will. I will give a magnificent reward to him who finds the man who can find my heart." And age made no perceptible inroads upon her, for beauty and wealth and health and happiness were hers to the end, and even glory, for she had talent, which wins worship and friendship and success and not the bitter sweet gift of genius. But though everything which life could offer was swept to her on the tide of the succeeding years, the hour came when she must part with them and with life and with the body in which, so she asserted, she had for so many years carried a piece of ice in place of a heart. She lay very still, with eyes that did not see, on the bed where they had laid her, while her woman friend and a distant kinswoman who had been called in to nurse her knelt by her and held her hands tightly.

"How peacefully she seems to look on death!" whispered the kinswoman.

"She was a good woman," answered the friend brokenly.

But the sick woman opened her eyes, and they seemed to look eagerly over the heads of the watchers. "What do you see?" they asked her, thinking it delirium. "Nothing but shadows," she sighed. "I thought—I hoped!"—And her voice sank until it was inaudible. When the doctor came, she gazed at him piercingly, then closed her eyes and murmured, "I thought you might be—I was looking for him."

"She means the death angel," said the watchers.

She spoke only once more before the death angel in very reality entered and laid his fingers upon her lips that would mock no more. Then she gazed through the clouds which seemed to surround the familiar objects in the room, pointed to the portraits of her rejected lovers and weakly whispered: "Burn them. I hate them still. Dear God, who knowest why, thou dost not despise me—thou who madest me so?" Then her mind wandered, and she murmured, "A magnificent reward!"—And her lips, which still smiled scorn at life and death as they had smiled at love, grew suddenly cold. When she was buried, the world came, some to weep, all to marvel and exclaim that here, at least, was one woman who could live and die independent of love—which is to say independent of nature.

This would have been all were it not for the old yellowed letters which have been mentioned. They were not so old and yellowed when the kinswoman found them the day before she departed for her own home, hidden in an obscure corner of a forgotten piece of furniture, and started as she recognized the dead woman's handwriting and signature. "To my dear love"—What was this? No name on the superscription, but in the letter the fondest terms of endearment, the most passionate expressions of love and trust and womanly clinging. She read the other letters, all written in the same vein, as from a woman who gloried in showing her whole heart to her lover, to whose name and identity there was given, however, no clue. The kinswoman brought them to the writer's friend. "Here," she said, "look and see the living proof that your woman who said she had no heart was human after all. There are more of these letters than I can count. They are of all dates, remote as well as recent—one was written the week before she died—and they are all addressed to some man, some lover, of whom no one ever guessed."

"There was no such man," positively asserted the woman friend. "I knew all her secrets; I saw every one whom she saw; I was aware of every letter she wrote or received; I was as inseparable as her shadow, and there was no lover to whom she ever listened."

Nevertheless, when she was alone with the letters, she read them, knowing that there was no counterfeiting her friend's handwriting, and as she read her wonder grew, for she read a woman's heart—warm, tender, glowing, poured out for love's sake on these pages as willingly as the soldier sheds his life blood for his country. And never did heretic recant his errors at the stake more absolutely than she denied her own denials and scorned the scorn which she had professed for love. "They believe me when I say I have no heart," she wrote, "but I do not care. You know—you only, and that is enough, for no one will ever see these lines. If I could not write to you I would sicken and die of hope deferred, or my heart would grow heavy in me and break for lack of anything on which to spend its gold. Dearest, I am saving it for you—I am spending it on you only—you of all the world who know my secret. Though, is not my desire that of all women's hearts?"

"I hate those men, whose likenesses I keep to remind me how different you are—You guess why? It is because they are not you. Of each I hoped he might be you, and when I found he was not I could not forgive him. I did not wrong them; they wronged and defrauded me."

The reader gave a cry and gazed fixedly at the letter, which bore no name. "There was no name," she whispered. "There was no lover. Oh, lonely, lonely woman, to cheat your heart with shadows, as you have cheated mine! Had you known, as I have known, the face, the voice, the touch of a flesh and blood lover, you could not have staid the imperious cravings of your soul with this poor pretense—with letters written to, but never read by, the unfulfilled ideal of your unacknowledged dreams!"

The letter written last, before her death, was briefer, less hopeful in its tone, and showed the traces of bodily weakness; but between the lines the loving, longing heart of her who wrote it throbbed with almost painful eagerness. "Alas, dear love," it finished, "I sometimes become weary of writing letters and wish you would—come—instead!"—The last page was blurred.

Fresh tears blurred it still more—the tears of the woman who at her bidding had given up all that would have made two lives worth living, and who bowed her head upon the letter and echoed her words:

"Dear God, thou dost not despise us—thou who hast made women so! Is not our desire that of all women's hearts?"—Philadelphia Times.

THE ART OF DRESSING.

Nobody Understands It as Well as a Daughter of France.

A Frenchwoman, however plain, sallow or old, is always graceful. She knows how to put on her clothes and how to wear them and is never guilty of idiosyncrasies of attire, because suitability to the occasion is the keynote of her toilet. Suitability is one of the great secrets of good dressing. It is not entirely whether the goods worn are cheap or expensive, whether the fashion is new or last season's; it is whether the goods and the fashion are appropriate to the occasion. Shirt waists have been in vogue this summer, and so have silk, satin or damask skirts. How many women have thoughtlessly combined the two, to the destruction of all harmony! It is as unsuitable to wear a cambric or linen shirt waist over a silk skirt as it would be for a man to wear a low cut vest and full dress coat over pepper and salt trousers. Silk, satin and damask belong to more or less formal occasions, and shirt waists do not. The latter may properly accompany skirts of cotton, linen or worsted goods, the tailor style of skirt being preferred.

Another question of suitability is that of gloves. Some women seem to fancy that gloves are only intended to cover ugly hands, and that if the hands are pretty gloves may be dispensed with in the street and theater. Now, however false may be the sentiment from which the custom springs, conventionality, which is merely another name for that self defensive armor which serves to keep strangers at a respectful distance, demands that the hands shall be as strictly covered as the feet in public, and a pretty hand is no more excuse than a pretty foot for ignoring the usages of polite society. Where it is necessary, as in a restaurant or similar place, the glove may, of course, be removed, but where there is no occasion to use the hand the glove should be retained.

The illustration shows a gown of gray cashmere. The skirt is adorned with four tucks. The blouse bodice is gathered at the waist and is cut V shaped behind and square in front over a yoke of striped gray and white taffeta. The Louis Quinze sleeve of striped taffeta is finished with a lace frill at the wrist and has an epaulet formed of two frills of white mousseline, having a black border. A similar frill frames the yoke. The belt is of white satin.

LIGHT SILK GOWNS.

A Use For Old Dresses—Linings to Guard Against.

Foulard, especially in Persian patterns, is one of the fashionable dress materials in Paris; also glace silks with small, brocaded figures. Batiste is also in vogue. Summer gowns will be worn as late into the fall as the weather permits, as everybody is loath to abandon the delicate, furbelowed gowns of summer for the heavier and more constraining ones of fall and winter.

Gowns of taffeta of bright and pretty patterns that have become somewhat soiled and faded during the summer campaign may be converted into petticoats for wear under nice fall and winter costumes. They may be trimmed with flounces and ruffles of black or white lace, with narrow velvet ribbon, bows, plaitings and similar adornments. If silk petticoats are not desired—and certainly they are not serviceable for ordinary wear—the taffeta gowns may be used to line fresh costumes. A silk lined skirt is a luxury, for it is light, does not cling to the figure as does alpaca or other lining material into which wool enters and looks as desirable as it feels. The silk or satin faced materials that come on purpose for lining, however, are to be guarded against, for they have a cotton warp that is very feeble and gives way at the first strain, especially at the inside of the foot of the skirt behind. All women know how exasperating it is for the lining to come to holes there. The holes catch on the heel of the boot at every step and almost trip one down, rendering walking dangerous as well as ungraceful.

A sketch is given of a gown of straw foulard with light blue dots. The skirt is plain. The blouse bodice has a plait in the middle of the front and a wide collar which is bordered with a frill of wide lace. The belt and collar are of pale blue satin. The draped sleeves are short and are met by long, pretty gray gloves.

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mount Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined?

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged, they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then come the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. Every atom of the "Discovery" is like a ferret, wherever it is sent. It is as sure as the needle of the compass. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging ones self. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.
